A KANSAS PREVALENT.

A correspondent sends us a clipping from the Lawrence Journal, of Kansas, which, under the head of "Drier Than Kansas; California Just Experiencing a Terrible Season" publishes an interview with a fine old slave named Harry B. Howard, who is reported as saying, among other things:

"Mr. Howard says the heat in Southern California has been worse than anything Kansas has experienced, many times the temperature being 118 and 120 deg. in the shade. 'This has been,' said Mr. Howard, 'an off year all round, but our State is better off than any other I have seen. In California even irrigation has been a failure this year. There were no rains last winter to fill the mountain reservoirs. This caused the abandonment of many fruit farms and increased the price of hay 200 per cent. If any Kansas man is thinking of going West to locate he had better investigate before he settles out here. And don't take advertising posters for a guide, either, but go into the country and see for yourself.'"

There is a ghastly humor in such a mendacious statement appearing in a paper published in a State whose inhabitants are, in many cases, seeking State support to keep them from starvation. It is scarcely necessary to say that the statement in regard to the temperature—outside of the Colorado Desert—to the irrigation facilities, and to the abandonment of fruit farms is a figment of Mr. Howard's conscienceless imagination, and that today Southern California is, according to the opinion of travelers, the most prosperous section of the United States. The only sensible part of Mr. Howard's remarks is his recommendation to people who think of coming to Southern California to investigate for themselves. Let them do so, and then write to tell us what they think of Harry B. Howard, of Lawrence, Kan.

A GREAT GATHERING IN LOS ANGELES.

A few weeks ago we stated in these columns that Los Angeles was more and more attracting to herself important assemblages of men, whether for political, scientific, literary or ecclesiastical purposes. The fact is, Los Angeles has, in her large halls and places of amusement, the room suitable for such assemblages. Moreover, the generous hospitality of her citizens has made this second city of the Pacific Coast especially attractive to strangers, who come from every part of our country to such meetings as we have referred to.

And now, there is assembled in our city another of the most important ecclesiastical bodies that have ever convened here. The Synod of California (Presbyterian) is now holding its sessions in Los Angeles, the business meetings being held in the First Presbyterian Church, corner Second and Broadway, and the popular meetings, in the evening, at the Immanuel Church, corner of Tenth and Pearl.

The delegates, both clerical and lay, are from the whole of California, from its northern boundary on Oregon to the extreme southern limit, which touches Mexico. Among these delegates are men of ability and learning, some of whom have a national reputation. The Presbyterians of California are abreast the times in every good word and work, in education and in benevolent enterprises at home and abroad. Nor does Presbyterianism show itself a laggard in regard to the woman question, for in reading the programme of the various sessions of this four days' congress, we see that woman holds no unhonored or unimportant place, as reporters, orators, etc.

Perhaps the most interesting features of this synod, from a popular point of view will be what is termed "the popular meeting" (not the Populist meeting) at the Immanuel Church on Thursday evening, and the inauguration of Rev. E. N. Condit as president of Occidental College on Friday afternoon. At the first—"the popular meeting"—the chief speaker will be Rev. Arthur J. Brown, D.D., of Portland, Or., who has proved himself in the pulpit and before the General Assembly one of the most forcible and pleasing orators of the Presbyterians in the United States. The inauguration of Rev. E. N. Condit, late of Oregon, as the president of Occidental College is a notable event for that institution and this city. Rev. Mr. Condit comes to us with the reputation of a first-class educator, and the trustee of Occidental College, profiting by the presence of the synod and of Rev. Dr. Ray of Chicago, secretary of the Board of Aid for Colleges and Academies have arranged that this inauguration shall be one of marked importance. The entire synod will proceed to Occidental College and there, at 2 p.m., with addresses from the college officials, from Dr. Ray, the inaugural address by the new president, and with appropriate music and other exercises, this important event will be accomplished.

The Times welcomes to Los Angeles these ecclesiastical and lay representatives from every county in California. Our material growth has been very great since the first Presbyterian service was held in Los Angeles just forty years ago. The growth of the Presbyterian church of Southern California has kept pace with that of other denominations and with the great increment of material things in this part of the country.

The Los Angeles Presbytery (including the counties south of the Tehachepi) contains more than one-third of the Presbyterians of the whole State, and the city of Los Angeles has, in one of our churches, the largest membership of any Presbyterian church west of the Rocky Mountains.

THE CONTEST FOR THE MAYORALTY.

The coming contest for the Mayor's office is important, the candidates numerous, the situation unsatisfactory and the outcome doubtful.

The Republican candidates include H. J. Shults, now City Treasurer; Justice H. C. Austin, Maj. E. F. C. Klokke, S. C. Hubbell, Frank Rader and Mr. Danforth. Capt. John Cross (Republican) is an independent candidate, and so is William H. Workman (Democrat). J. J. Gosper is also in the field.

Here are nine candidates, six of whom, at least, are seeking the place as Republican partisans, hoping to secure the nomination of the Republican City Convention.

There is at the same time a notoriously strong sentiment among the best classes, without reference to party, in favor of a non-partisan nomination and a non-partisan campaign.

Each of the candidates named has his strong and weak points; each has his friends, champions and opponents. None of the men named thus far has pre-eminent strength; no one of them towers above his fellows so conspicuously as to draw general public attention to him as the man for the hour and the place; and the name of no one of them, we fear, is a guarantee that a nomination will be equivalent to an election.

In this state of the case we believe it is expedient for citizens and Republicans to look further.

The needs of the city, the importance of the post to be filled, the requirements of the situation in every phase of it, call for the selection of a man possessing conspicuous business and administrative qualifications.

We have such men in the city, and one of them is W. C. Patterson. The Times, without having conferred with this sterling citizen, and not knowing his views or intentions, suggests him as a conspicuously fit man for the office of Mayor. He would be a strong candidate, either as a Republican or as a non-partisan.

PIGS AND PIG IRON.

Under the stimulating effect of the protective policy, our production of pig iron had reached the enormous total of 9,157,000 tons in 1891, the year following the enactment of the McKinley law. The production of Great Britain for the same year was 7,837,000 tons, or 1,300,000 tons less than that of the United States. The supremacy which we wrested from Great Britain under "McKinleyism" has been lost under the Democratic tariff policy. Mr. T. Stanley Jeans, a well known English statistician, says: "Until the current year the United States have retained the lead which they got in 1890. But now it appears they have lost it again to the United Kingdom, for it appears by statistics that have just been published that during the first half of the present year the British production of pig iron was 3,708,270 tons as compared with only 2,717,900 tons produced in the same period in the United States." It is to be wondered at that Mr. Wilson, who went to England as the representative of a policy which had brought about such results, was received with open arms by the Britishers.

In a recent speech at Oakland Senator White is reported as saying that "under the McKinley law the duty on salt was prohibitive and every salt consumer in the land had to pay higher prices in consequence." Does not the Senator know that the price of salt has steadily declined, under tariff protection, for several years past, until it is as low in the United States as it is in England? Michigan salt has sold as low as 46 cents per barrel.

the barrel alone costing some 25 cents. Does any intelligent person suppose it could be produced cheaper than that, if the workmen engaged in its production were paid living wages, or any wages worth mentioning? And has anybody heard of the least reduction in the price of salt to the consumer or to the trade under the new Democratic tariff?

Rev. F. D. Power, pastor of the Garfield Memorial Church at Washington, D. C., writes a vigorous letter to the Christian Standard of Cincinnati, commenting on the defeat of Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge in his late Congressional canvass. The writer says that, while some of the dispatches attribute Breckinridge's defeat to the Christian church he is of the opinion that "aroused, indignant and outraged womanhood had more to do with this rebuke to Satan than any other influence." Mr. Power is undoubtedly right in this conclusion. He suggests that an organization of women should be formed in the United States, similar to the Primrose League in Great Britain, for the purpose of exerting a purifying effect upon political and social affairs. This suggestion is worthy of careful consideration by the progressive women of the land. It would not necessarily have to take the form of a suffrage movement.

A considerable number of idle factories have resumed operations since the passage of the new tariff measure, but in the great majority of cases wages have been reduced. There was a marked and general improvement of business immediately following the passage of the McKinley act, and the revival of industry, at that time, was in almost all cases accompanied by increased wages. Such is the difference between Republican and Democratic tariff legislation.

The Stockton Mail is very cruel in its treatment of Jim Budd, the candidate of its party for Governor. It gives two pictures of Jim, on the plan of the "before and after" advertisements of patent medicines. The first represents him as a promising roebuck, while the second shows him as a full-grown cabbage head. The pride of Stockton should rise up in his wrath and sit down heavily upon the Stockton Mail and its too truthful artist.

The aggregation of Socialists, Anarchists and other cranks, comprising the Populist City Convention had a parrot-and-monkey time yesterday, accusing one another of all sorts of crookedness and scoundrelism. The wild-eyed, bewhiskered, and odoriferous crowd squabbled, wrangled, and "git" over their nominations with as much gusto as though there were some possibility that any the nominees would be elected to office.

During the year following the passage of the McKinley act the output of the blast furnaces of the country reached the highest point ever known, exceeding, in fact, the output of the furnaces of any other country in the world. Under Democratic tariff juggling, the output of our furnaces last summer, reached the lowest point in ten years. Comment is wholly unnecessary.

A Washington dispatch states that President Cleveland will go to New York on election day and vote for David B. Hill for Governor. If this great crowd-eating festival be carried out it ought to come off in Castle Garden or Cooper Union, and a heavy admission fee should be charged.

December wheat touched the 55-cent mark in the New York market yesterday. Somehow wheat doesn't seem to participate in the upward surge of prices for wool, which the imaginative free-trade editors are picturing.

Only this week remains in which to register. Every voter should see that his name is correctly entered on the list of voters at the County Clerk's office, in the Courthouse.

The women of New York city have entered politics by organizing an anti-Tammany movement. The question "The Lady or the Tiger" is about to be revived.

CAMPAIGN SHOTS.

California ought to send a solid Republican delegation to Congress, as a rebuke to Democratic blundering and general incompetency.

A vote for Mr. Estee is a vote for good government, protection and prosperity. A vote for Mr. Budd is a vote for Democratic incompetency, free trade and business depression.

(San Francisco Chronicle.) The point which Mr. Budd and his friends are trying to make is that, under the administration of the present Republican Governor, the State has been financially ruined. But they do not know what they are talking and writing about. They mistake the fictions of book-keeping for actual facts. The cost to the people is determined by the amount of the tax levy. For the four years it aggregates $21,731,369.

(Tulare Register.) In their zeal for the State ticket, Republicans should not overlook the importance of getting the right men in the Legislature. There is a Senator to elect this winter, and a little effort now will make it unnecessary to send a committee to Washington to beg your representatives to refrain from ruining your industries. Better select the right sort of men in the first place, and then you will not be compelled to convert them afterward.

(Louisville Commercial.) While Billy Wilson is denying that he said anything in his London speech attributed to him, he will not deny that the chairman of the banquet, A. K. Rollet, thanked him for the benefit which was resulting to the English interests from his efforts in repealing the McKinley law, and informed him that, in consequence, the furnaces were again being lighted in Yorkshire and Wales, and a great stimulus was already evident in textile industries.

(Oakland Tribune.) The heresy of free trade has been tried four times since 1783, and in every instance has never failed to cause excessive imports and decreased exports; it has never failed to cause a ruinous loss of specie; it has never failed to close down our manufacturing, reduce wages to the starving point, enforce idleness, cause a general inability to pay debts, cause widespread bankruptcies, universal distress and financial ruin. Now the cause is experiencing the sad results of a fifth return of this curse of the country. A vote which the curse by voting the Republican ticket of protection solid.

THE OLD, OLD STORY

The Populists Hold Another "Circus."

A Chapter from Schnabel's Business Record Furnished the Convention.

The Mocking Cry of "No Fusion" Still Rings in the Ears of the Enthusiasts Who Indorse Democrats.

Nearly every Populist in the city convention, which met in a hurried session yesterday morning, cast the shadow of a doubt upon the "no fusion" policy of the Democrats when scrutinized in the light of political inquiry.

The Populists are not through fusing yet, and if they continue along the line already adopted, the city, as well as the county material, will be formed of "patchwork" material. They began the "good work" yesterday morning by attempting to pull down E. C. Schnabel, the former saloon-keeper, who was nominated last Friday for the office of Mayor. Alva Udel, the typewriter operator of J. Marlon Brooks' office, spurred on undoubtedly by the desire of some committeeman to get the "no fusion" policy of the Democrats into the record of the Schnabel insolvency case, and he came in with a long statement of the alleged facts, from which he deduced the conclusion that the man mentioned was not as honorable as a Populist candidate should be. But Udel had not estimated fairly the strength of the Populist element and he found some difficulty in getting his charges fairly before the convention. The trouble all ended by the appointment of a committee to investigate the matter, the members of which are all presumed to be favorable to Schnabel.

The distinctive feature of all the Populist conventions thus far has been for the "no fusion" cry to be raised with a hurrah for a brief interval of time, after which the Democrats would be welcomed into the gathering and given a position on the list of nominees. Yesterday all of the changes were rung on the worn out cry of "No Fusion." The Opening Shot. UDELL READS THE RECORDS ON SCIPAR.

The Committee on Credentials and Platform and Resolutions were called into session before the convention assembled for the purpose of attending to the preliminary matters and at 10:15 o'clock E. C. Schnabel mounted the platform.

After the question of a new committee was again gone over and settled, the chairman said that the regular order would be taken up. He called for nominations for City Attorney.

Alva Udel was on his feet waiting. He held up his hand and said that he wanted to speak as a matter of personal privilege. He was allowed the floor and he began to speak. Udel said that he had stood up and seconded a nomination on Friday last of a man whom he had known only a few months. He had been so informed by the nominee's character was as follows, in a clean one. The records had been searched and it was found that the man in question was dishonest and that he had been practicing a fraud on the community. Before he mentioned the man's name Udel said that he hoped that there would be no demonstration during the proceedings. The order of the day was as follows: A letter was read which had been taken from the county records which showed that E. C. Schnabel, the chairman and nominee for Mayor, had been sued for money due on whisky, or rather the goods themselves, on the ground that false pretenses had been made to secure the merchandise. The order of the day was as follows: A letter was read which had been taken from the county records which showed that E. C. Schnabel, the chairman and nominee for Mayor, had been sued for money due on whisky, or rather the goods themselves, on the ground that false pretenses had been made to secure the merchandise.

While Udel was reading, a delegate arose and proposed that the vice chairman, preside during the hearing, and Schnabel retired.

Fisk wanted to know, when he took up the question of the nomination of Schnabel, whether he had been sued for money due on whisky, or rather the goods themselves, on the ground that false pretenses had been made to secure the merchandise.

Edward Hutchinson interrupted the reading of the charges and asked several questions in his peculiar drawing method of speech.

Fisk was apparently only waiting for an opportunity to make an adverse ruling, and he finally ordered Udel to read only the total of Schnabel's indebtedness, and of the separate items. The convention ruled otherwise, and Udel was allowed to again proceed.

Called a Blackmailer. E. C. Schnabel took the floor in answer to the charges and he said: "I denounce Mr. Udel as a blackmailer when he only gives a part of the record and does not give the final determination of the case, for it was finally decided in my favor. I pleaded guilty to being dishonest in business." Schnabel went on to state that the Supreme Court had decided in his favor the question of obtaining goods under false pretenses, and that certain parties had started another suit, and that his attorneys had set up a defense that the suit for false pretenses having been lost a bona fide sale could not be set aside.

Several members of the convention arose in support of Schnabel. Delegate Montgomery moved that a committee be appointed to investigate the insolvency matter. A lady delegate moved that the whole matter be laid upon the table. This motion was carried unanimously.

The motion for the appointment of the committee was carried almost unanimously, FOR INVESTIGATION.

Schnabel said that he was glad that the convention had decided to appoint a committee, as he would be glad to have the matter fully investigated.

Clark, Jr., the long-faced secretary, arose in a pompous way before the motion was carried and wanted to put some questions to Montgomery, among his Populist, but, surprising as it may seem, Fisk sat down upon him hard.

It was finally decided that the convention should adjourn until tomorrow, and every member of the body was nominated. When matters began to warm up, Cyren Fisk, with a tired air, took off his coat and changed to the back of the chair. Then the gathering appeared once again as a Populist convention.

Several members of the convention arose in support of Schnabel. Delegate Montgomery moved that a committee be appointed to investigate the insolvency matter. A lady delegate moved that the whole matter be laid upon the table. This motion was carried unanimously.

The motion for the appointment of the committee was carried almost unanimously, FOR INVESTIGATION.

Schnabel said that he was glad that the convention had decided to appoint a committee, as he would be glad to have the matter fully investigated.

Clark, Jr., the long-faced secretary, arose in a pompous way before the motion was carried and wanted to put some questions to Montgomery, among his Populist, but, surprising as it may seem, Fisk sat down upon him hard.

It was finally decided that the convention should adjourn until tomorrow, and every member of the body was nominated. When matters began to warm up, Cyren Fisk, with a tired air, took off his coat and changed to the back of the chair. Then the gathering appeared once again as a Populist convention.

"Does it pay to come to California?" is asked daily by visitors. Here is the answer given by a lady yesterday: "My husband and myself landed here a year ago from the World's Fair, with $1,000, expecting our son to meet us with funds to live on. Failing to get the assistance we expected, we started out to rustle. Today we are renting a nice place below town, own all the furniture in the house, have a horse and buggy, all we want to eat and wear, and both my husband and I have jobs, and we are happy. I tell you it pays to come to California."

The superintendent has just received two hundred diplomas from the Midwinter Fair, given on citrus fruits and nuts. He will mail them to the lucky parties in a day or two.
